Dear all,

Good afternoon., I trust you are all fine!

Following yesterday's government's official communication, please find below official update which we were asked to share with all our teams

Quote

Further to clarifications by Prof Charmaine Gauci just now on yesterday's announcement, this is what applies:-

All those who are 65+, are pregnant or suffer from any of the conditions identified yesterday have to stay home.

All those who live with any of these people have to apply the following reasoning:-

If they can work from home, they should work from home.

If their job cannot be done from home, they should try to find alternative accommodation for themselves or for the vulnerable people who live with them.

If this is not possible, they are allowed to go to work but should take extra care by reducing as much as possible their contact to the vulnerable people living with them, e.g. do not stay in the same room while at home; do not go into their bedrooms; do not handle their food, drinks and clothes; do not pass on things to them; do not use the same bathroom if possible; change your clothes and shoes on your doorstep; adopt rigorous cleaning strategies at home.

There will be no Government benefit for those who cannot work from home but decide to stay home, as they are still allowed to go to work.
